THE first fruits that follow the agitation of the Postal Telegraph scheme is the announcemedt of an early general reduction of the telegraphic rates.

THE Herald is evidently intent upon killing His Honor, Mayor Millard, for renomination and election. It has of late undertaken to choke him down with praises and flattery

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN, who is sometimes a lunatic and always an infidel, was possessed of enough sense and faith to invest largely in the Credit Mobilier, and earn handsome dividends. There is considerable method in his madness occasionally.

An act "to protect female virtue" has been introduced in the Lower House of the Missouri Legislature. It provides that any man who seduces a woman on promise of marriage shall have the choice of hitching permanently or becoming an inmate of the State prison for a term not exceeding five years.

THE political world is to be regaled at an early by an exhibition of a lively tussle between Governor Mc-Cook, of Colorado, and certain prom-inent politicians, who, we presume, are partly disgusted with his ad-ministration of Indian affairs, and ministration of Indian affairs, and partly jealous of his possible influence in the coming Senatorial contest in case of the admission of Colorado

This coal is said to be of a very fine quality. A shaft is also being sunk by steam power, and we anticipate that all doubts concerning this important discovery will be solved within a few weeks.

A PETITION numerously signed has been forwarded to Washington by the workingmen of Boston against the proposed increase of the Presilowest in those localities where the governmetal or official salaries are highest. Although we cannot comprehend the logic of this theory, we should prefer to have Congress refrain from changing the Presodential salaries at present.

OUR reverend contemporary, the Republican, throws a back-handed slur at General Thayer in its yesterday's issue, by berating the Herald for attempting to defend the General against charges of corruption. The article in question winds up by declaring that "the General has gone East, and will probably attend to his own affairs; but what C. S. Bushnell swears to will befound very nearly right." What a pity as much cannot be said for what George Washington Secondus swears to.

It is understood that the Senate will approve the measure adopted by the House, and authorize the President to collect the claims adjudicated by the commission under the conven-tion concluded between the United States and the Republic of Venzuela April 25, 1866. The prompt action taken by the House is in accordance with an allusion by the President to the subject in his annual message.

The bill for the distribution of claims against Great Britain, in accordance with the awards of the Gen eva tribunal, has not been finally considered by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, but its members say a final action will soon be taken, and a report made to the House. There is a feeling in the committee against allowing the heavy claims of the insurance companies and if the committee's views upon this subject are carried out there will undoubtedly be a warm discussion on the question. Although the bill does not provide that Congress will regulate the payment of these claims, it is the opinion of the committee that Congress ought to lay down the rules under woich they shall be paid, On Ten Years Credit at Six Per Cent. A dispatch from Yreka to-day states a messenger had just arrived at that place from the headquarters of Gen. Wheaton, commanding troops in the action against the Modoc Indians. A severe battle was fought hast Fridap. The troops under command of Wheaton were 250 regulars, two companies of Oregon volunteers. twenty-five California riflemen, commanded by Capt. Fairchild, and a few Klamath Indians, altogether about four hundred men. The battle took place near the eastern shore of Tule Lake. On Thursday Captain Bernard went around the north end S. D. Mercer, M. D. the east of Capt. Jack's position. He was to advance against Captain Jack from the east and Gen Wheaton from the southwest, the forces of the latter to be under cover of the fire of howitzers. Thursday night such dense fog enveloped the country they could not see forty yards. The two forces were then about twelve miles apart, though to communicate with each other, it was necessary to go a much greater distance.

Friday morning Capt. Bernard opened battle against Captain Captain Jack, who had 200 warriors concealed among rocks, along a line two miles in leangth. Gen. Wheaton heard firing and had no alternative but to move to aid Capt. Bernard without fire of howitzers. The troops fought the unseen foe from 8 a. m. to dark under terrific fire, during which scarcely one Indian was seen. loss to the troops was forty killed and wounded. Loss of the Modocs unknown. The troops were finally obliged to retreat to camps. Ber nard's forces bore the brunt of the battle and suffered terribly. All All cavalry fought on foot. Among the killed were Frank Tremble, J. R. Brown, Oregon; G. W. Roberts, mortally wounded; Capt. Perry, regulars, seriously; Lieut. Kyle, slightly wounded. The movement was called a forced reconnoisance. Capt. Jack's position the leaders say, will take 1,000 men to dislodge him from the lava beds. The troops for the present can only prevent the Modocs raiding on settlement and Douglas St., Under Hamilton House, wait reinforcements.

Additional reports from the scene of the battle on Fsiday with the Modoes give the whites known as killed ten, and wounded thirty. Lieuten-ant Roberts, of Fairchild's command cannot live. The Modocs fought naked and with the greatest desperation, springing from rock to rock picking off the soldiers, and obliging many of them to hide themselves till darkness, which afforded means of escape. The troops made several charges along the line of lava bed, but were repulsed. Capt. Jack has the strongest natural position in the country. Howitzers could not be used to any advantage, owing to a dense fog.
